Biografie

Trendwatcher, futurist and international keynote speaker Richard van Hooijdonk takes you to an inspiring future that will dramatically change the way we live, work and do business.

His inspiration sessions have been attended by over 420,000 people. Richard is a regular guest at radio and television programs. In collaboration with his international research team of 30 specialists, he investigates technology trends on a daily basis (robotics, autonomous transportation, Internet of Things, biotech, nanotech, neurotech, blockchain, 3D & 4D printing, AR/VR) and the impact of artificial intelligence on the world of tomorrow.

In addition, the research team studies several business models. Many will disappear while new ones will emerge. Organisations and people need to change faster and require different skills and leadership. During his keynote lectures, he will feature many case studies, examples, and tips.

Findings are published weekly in the form of compelling articles, e-books and white papers.
